

NOVEMBER BULLETIN

Another month down in a year that is flying by... we only have about 50 days or so till Christmas so get out there and do that holiday shopping that makes the holidays feel so extra special. Am I the only person that is put off that some of the stores, Sam's Club in particular, starts with the Christmas decorations in September now??? I feel like in a few years we will see the Christmas decorations going up right along with St. Patrick's Day décor...

Well enough with the scrooge box, I've got bigger reindeer to fry.

Just to put it out there it is not too late to donate to your Veterans Club to get your tax deduction for the year.

We are having our Annual Veterans Day Prime Rib Fundraiser happening on November 9th at 5pm in the main hall. There are still some tickets available and you can't beat a Prime Rib dinner with all the fixins' entertainment and raffles all in an evening that you will be hearing about the following week saying I wish I was there. Tickets are only $25.00 and are available at the Canteen.

Well there wasn't a movie out that I was willing to spend $12.00 on, which is usually the case this time of year, so we will be moving to the restaurant portion of our "Finger on the Pulse" area of the bulletin. Today our local review is on... Casa De Pico, a Mexican dining experience with a small touch of Texas to throw in a TexMex flavor. The tortillas are made on site and the dishes have just enough U.S. influence that the flavors will be all too familiar to your pallet. Some Mexican "sit down" restaurants I have visited have either given me a familiar taste or a, what did I just swallow, curiosity that I may or may not have cared for. This place offers good service, familiar food and T.V.'s that are strategically placed to enjoy your sporting events as you appear to be occasionally gently staring over at your significant other while in reality viewing the half time scores. The prices are very reasonable and the portions are excellent. If you leave hungry it is entirely possible the next visit to a restaurant should be Jenny Craig.

Just a quick tidbit for the members that don't go to meetings... the parking lot is having lined potable water pipes put in for your LaMesa in home water consumption enjoyment.

And now as I put my soap box back in the corner for another month and open a booth up for another patron, until next time, don't forget to take your vitamins, say your prayers and I'll see you around the corner.
